

"Everything is Natural. Anything is Possible."

The alewives were a natural run in the Marsh here, they live in two different ecosystems, salt water and fresh water. People probably never thought that they would stop coming, but "anything is possible". We could also introduce them back to the marsh and work to keep them here.

Hunter Hoppe

